

FREE WORKSHOP:

Conquer Cape Tulip

Come along to our Conquer Cape Tulip workshops in Clare and Wilmington. Learn the best techniques for controlling this toxic pest plant.

Cape tulip is a garden escapee that is common and widespread across the Clare Valley and has recently emerged in Wilmington. It is a toxic pest plant that can poison livestock, most commonly affecting cattle.

You'll learn all about this hard-to-control weed, how to identify it prior to flowering and see some of the latest control techniques in action, including:

- a wick wiper demonstrated by Andrew Fairney of Seeding Natives.
- a boom spray thanks to Sean Haydon from SK Bushcare Services
- And a drone sprayer from Mid State Drone Service.

Wilmington Wednesday, 9 August 2023

Both workshops will be held from 1pm to 3.15pm, with venue locations provided on registration. Afternoon tea will be supplied by the Northern and Yorke Landscape Board.

This event is funded by the Northern and Yorke Landscape Board through the landscape levy.

Register now:

Nick Modra

Email: nick.modra@sa.gov.au

Mob: 0458 353 309